Edward Ruzzo Named for County Court Post

EDWARD J. RUZZO

Endorsed by G.O.P. Committee To Fill Vacancy Left by Judge Gast's Death.

Edward J. Ruzzo, Marion attorney, last night was unanimously indorsed by the Marion County Republican executive committee for appointment as probate and juvenile judge to succeed the late Oscar W. Gast.

The appointment to fill the vacancy will be made by Gov Herbert. It is customary for the governor to follow the recommendation of the local party executive committee in making such appointments.

Tentative plans were made today for the governor to make the appointment at his office in the statehouse in Columbus at 10 30 a. m next Monday. Mr. Ruzzo is to be given the oath of office by the governor immediately afterward. The appointment has been delayed until Monday because of the press of business before the governor in connection with the Republican rally in Columbus this week

The new judge will take over his duties immediately after the swearing in ceremony

Two Names Considered

Two names were submitted to the committee for indorsement, it was reported today Mr. Ruzzo was given a substantial majority on the first ballot. Another vote was taken which made the indorsement unanimous. Twenty-two members of the committee were present.

A meeting of the Marion county Bar association was called for this afternoon to consider adding its indorsement of Mr. Ruzzo Governor Herbert had indicated that in addition to the executive committee indorsement he would like the approval of the bar association before he makes the appointment.

The change of judges in the probate and juvenile courts will be the first here under a new state law requiring judges of these courts to be attorneys

Judge Gast, who first took office in February, 1929, was not an attorney but was eligible to remain in office through repeated reelections. The new law became effective a few years ago.

His practice was interrupted March 15, 1941, when he entered the Army, a few months before America entered World War II The following November he was placed in the enlisted reserve corps as being over 28 years of age and returned to his law practice.

In March, 1942, he became project manager in the land acquisition section of the U. S Army Engineers and as such was in charge of the acquisition of land for the Scioto Ordnance Plant, the Marion Engineer Depot here and the Lordstown Ordnance Depot at Warren.

He was recalled to active duty in the Army Oct. 8, 1942, and for a year was stationed at Camp Adair with the 104th infantry regiment. Later he was assigned to the Security intelligence corps with the grade of special agent and was stationed at San Francisco, Calif, until his discharge Dec. 17, 1945.

STATE ACTS TO ACQUIRE LAND

Sherwood Is Negotiating for Transfer of Scioto Ordnance Plant Area.

State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood started renegotiations today with the federal land bank of Louisville over acquisition of the Scioto Ordnance plant here, The Associated Press reported in a dispatch from Columbus

A department spokesman said Sherwood wanted to have the contract for the transfer of the federal property changed so the land could be used for "any type of welfare institution"

As originally agreed to by the federal government, the war assets administration would transfer the property to the state for $1. With the provision that it be used continuously for 25 years as "a school for confinement, training and instruction of juvenile delinquents"

At the end of the 25-year period, the state would receive clear title to the property.

The department's plans now call for the ordnance property to be used as a branch of the boys' industrial school, but looking to the future, welfare officials said conditions might change in the next 25 years in such fashion that other use might be desired to be made of the institution

Transfer of 1,243 acres of land and buildings of the administration area was approved by the war assets administration July 2

U.S. PROTESTS RUSS PILFERING OF ASSETS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 30—The United States has protested to Russia against Soviet removal of former German and Italian assets from the defeated Balkan states—Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania

Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett told a news conference today that a note had been delivered to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow yesterday asking full information regarding such transfers of property.

Lovett said the state department took the position in its notes that

1. All removals of property to Russia before the Hungarian, Bulgarian and Romanian peace treaties come into effect are "of provisional character."

2. Austrian assets in these countries can not be seized on the grounds that they are German properties pending Allied agreement on a definition of "German assets."

3. Only removals made in accordance with peace treaty provisions can be recognized by the United States as legal.

The note said the United States is concerned because it was one of the signers of the peace treaties with Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania and thus holds responsibility for enforcement of the pacts' provisions

In discussingj Italian assets in these countries, the note said disposal of such properties is specifically provided for in the peace treaty.

Dispatches from London said the British government had delivered a similar protest to the Russians yesterday.

HUGHES PLANE ORDER TRACED TO ROOSEVELT

Ex-Cabinet Member Declares President Gave Green Light To Continue.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 30—Jesse Jones testified today that the late President Roosevelt ordered that work continue on a $20,000,000 flying boat ordered during the war from Howard Hughes.

Jones, former secretary of commerce, said he talked with Mr Roosevelt following a cabinet meeting in February, 1944, and that the Chief Executive said he did not believe money already spent on the project should be thrown away.

At that time, the government had spent approximately $13,500,000 on the 200-ton flying boat which has not yet been flown. Some government production officials wanted to drop the project.

Jones told his version of the story to a senate war investigating subcommittee inquiring into the award of about $40,000,000 worth of wartime plane contracts to Hughes and Henry J. Kaiser.

Jones said he had signed the original contract on direct instructions from the war production board and without knowing the project was opposed by the Army and Navy.

Before Jones was called to the witness chair, Glenn L. Martin Baltimore plane builder, testified that Kaiser approached him in July, 1942, with a proposal to form a six-company combine to build 500 large cargo planes on a government order Kaiser said he alone could get.

Kaiser acknowledged, Martin said, that the proposal was "at variance" with the approved Army-Navy plane production program, but said he could get it okayed by appealing to "high places"

Asks About Roosevelt

When Jones told of his conversation with Mr. Roosevelt, Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) of the senate sub[illegible] "Did [illegible] have anything to do with the making of this contract?"

"Not to my knowledge," Jones said

Jones read into the record a memorandum, dated Feb. 18, 1944, which he said he dictated for the RFC staff, quoting Mr. Roosevelt as saying that "the experience to be gained from completing one plane" would be too great to throw away.

Early in 1944, Jones said, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) which he headed had cancelled the contract, and asked for a report on the feasibility of concerting the huge plywood craft to metal construction

He said he then discussed the contract with the President because he knew the Chief Executive was interested and because he was commander in chief of the armed forces.

Talked With Hughes

Jones said he had a number of conversations with Hughes, multimillionaire plane builder and movie maker, and tried to persuade him to abandon the project.

He took the stand after Glenn L Martin, Baltimore plane builder, had testified that Kaiser approached him in July, 1942, with a proposal to form a six-company combine to build 500 large cargo planes on a government order Kaiser said he alone could get.

Kaiser acknowledged, Martin said, that the proposal was "at variance" with the approved Army-Navy plane production program, but said he could get it okayed by appealing to "high places."

It was some time later, Martin said, that Kaiser obtained a government contract jointly with Howard Hughes to build three 400-ton cargo planes.

The committee is holding hearings in an effort to determine the circumstances of an award of $40,000,000 in plane contracts to Kaiser and Hughes, and why no plane in flying condition has been delivered under an $18,000,000 contract for the three flying boats.

Hughes Has Theory

As the hearings were resumed, with Martin in the witness chair, Hughes, Hollywood film producer and airplane designer, issued a statement in California asserting that the investigation is an attempt to "coerce" him into agreeing to a merger of Trans World Airlines with Juan Trippe's Pan American Airways. Hughes has an extensive interest in TWA.

Cause of Blast, Fatal To 10 Women, Sought

MAYOR BEGINS INVESTIGATION

30 Other Persons Injured in Explosion of Virginia Beauty Shop.

By The Associated Press

HARRISBURG, Va., July 30—Mayor Bernard T. Denton launched an investigation today into the cause of an explosion in a combination beauty shop and school yesterday that killed 10 women and injured 30 other persons, wrecked the one-story structure and shattered glass windows in buildings in the area.

Fire Chief Louis Armentrout said "we haven't been able to determine anything new" in efforts to ascertain the cause of the explosion, he added that many officials were of the opinion that an accumulation of gas in the building was set off by a lighted match.

Nineteen persons remained in Rockingham County Memorial hospital today and attendants reported their conditions "about the same," three of these were described as critically injured.

Windows Blown Out

The blast was felt as far away as four miles. Stained glass windows in a nearby Methodist church were blown out as were those in several homes and business establishments

Chief of Police Julius F. Ritchie said he looked out of his window and saw heavy black smoke all over the business area of this Shenandoah valley town of 10,000 persons

Two brothers—John and C. W. O'Neill—were working on opposite sides of the building as plumber and painter.

"I had just left a building and turned in time to see the roof rise in the air and settle back down again," said C. W. O'Neill. "A pall of yellow smoke rose from the building."

Cause Is Undetermined

The cause of the explosion was undetermined. An early theory that a boiler had exploded was discounted last night. Coal was being unloaded into the basement at the time of the explosion, 2 p. m. yesterday, and rescue workers said they distinctly smelled gas in the debris.

Nineteen of the 30 persons injured remained in the hospital for treatment. One was termed critically hurt while the injuries of six others were considered serious.

A crowd of 2,000 people swarmed to the shop area on Main street.

Burglar Leaps Through Window To Escape Trap in Gas Station

A burglar escaped from a North Main street filling station at 2 55 a. m today after being trapped temporarily by the unexpected arrival of two men who caught him in the act of rifling the cash drawer, police reported today.

The man, who apparently entered Earl's Friendly Service station at 501 North Main street through an unlocked window, cut short his burglary when an attendant, Robert Barrett, accompanied by a friend returned unexpectedly after the station was closed. The thief had to be content with taking $3.

Barrett told police a friend, Frank Peters of Upper Sandusky, had left his car at the station to be serviced and failed to return before closing time. Mr Peters came to Barrett's home, 391 Patten street, and the two men returned to the station to get the car.

Peters spotted the burglar inside the office and thinking it was a night janitor mentioned the fact to Barrett who replied they had no janitor, that it must be someone who had broken into the station.

The burglar ducked into another part of the building when Barrett unlocked the office. He entered and notified police they had the man cornered. Peters had gone to the west side of the building where a window was standing open, thinking the man would have to leave by the way he apparently entered.

Instead, the trapped burglar escaped by crashing through a closed window on the south side and fled. The two men followed him south to the alley then west to Prospect street where they lost him. The man was a Negro, described as being about 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighing about 165 pounds.

Finds Strange Pony Tied Up in Barn

Who is the owner of a brown western pony is the $64 question being asked these days by Ervin Hoffman of 619 Oak street at whose home the pony has been a temporary guest for the last three days.

When Mr. Hoffman returned from his work as a foremen at the City Ice & Fuel Co. plant in the Erie railroad yards, Monday morning, he found the pony chained in his barn. Tied so close to the manger that it could scarcely eat, he immediately loosened the animal and has been "boarding" it since that time. The pony, which looks to be about nine years old, was tied with a chain approximately 50 feet in length

"I'll take good care of it but I do wish whoever owns it would come and get it," he said today.

England's Economic Crisis May Put Bevin Into Driver's Seat

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

England's exceedingly grave economic crisis has produced—after the maner of this affliction—a political storm which has the country by the ears and is causing Prime Minister Attlee's Labor (Socialist) government much concern.

The great Conservative party, which was thrown out of power two years ago by the Socialists, charges that Labor has divided the country at a time when unity is paramount. Newspapers of all complexions have been lambasting the cabinet. Even the Daily Mirror, long a staunch supporter of the Attlee regime, now declares that the premier has failed to cope with the pressing economic problems. The Mirror goes so far as to demand that he resign.

DewittMackenzie

Whether this storm will clear up quickly remains to be seen. We may get some clarification today, when Attlee is scheduled to meet with the labor members of parliament in caucus to explain to that critical gathering just why the goddess of fortune seems to be mad at Britain's experimental Socialist government.

Not Really Angry

Mr. Attlee most certainly will maintain that the good lady really isn't angry but that the country is suffering from a heavy war-hangover for which his government isn't responsible and which it hasn't been able to overcome as yet. One doesn't venture to predict what further he will say, but it will have to be plenty to satisfy all quarters of his party, because the question of leadership is heavily involved.

The crux of the situation actually is the badly lagging industrial production, and that in turn is due to low coal production. The solution of the difficulty depends in large degree on persuading the coal miners — who finally won their five-day week—to surrender that cherished prize for a time in the interests of the country and return to the old grind—temporarily, to be sure, but still to turn the clock back.

That's where the question of leadership enters in, and why British newspapers are suggesting that Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin may succeed Mr. Attlee in event of the latter's resignation. Bevin is credited with being the country's most powerful leader of the labor masses. He himself came up through union ranks, and he thinks the thoughts and talks the language of the laborer. The union members love him.

Forceful Personality

Bevin is one of Britain's most forceful personalities, and a born leader. He has astute judgement, and is a good executive. Though sometimes rash in his bluntness, he is a brilliant and colorful speaker, capable of dealing wither with an audience of workers or a conference of international statesmen. He is a fighter and likes a good scrap.

Small wonder then that many of his party should think of him as being the right man to inspire the workers of the country to undertake the production needed to put England on her feet, especially since he is exceedingly strong with the miners. Small wonder, too, that there are many who feel sure he would like to be prime minister, although the question of his loyalty to his present chief doesn't arise.

However, Bevin isn't the only fighter among the Labor leaders. Prime Minister Attlee is one of the sturdiest of the lot, and is sure to battle to retain his leadership—unless he becomes satisfied that he has lost the support of the Labor party. But Attlee has a universal reputation of being a sincere and loyal servant of the state, and few doubt that he would resign if he found that he had lost the confidence of his party. Then he might recommend to the king that Bevin be named prime minister.

Calm Is the Word for Kaiser As Embarrassing Questions Fly

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 30—No lepidopterae fluttered in the stomach of Henry Kaiser, Esq. . . . the only butterflies on him were pink ones dancing among the rose-buds on his necktie. Calm was the word for Kaiser.

Eleven photographers aimed their flashbulbs his way. Five more cameras focused on his glistening dome. So many cables snaked across the red velvet carpet and so many spotlights glared in his eyes that the senate caucus room resembled nothing quite so much as a Hollywood sound stage of his airplane-building partner, Howard Hughes.

None of this bothered Kaiser. Neither did the senators. When they swatted an embarrassing question his way, he usually managed to swat it back. When they talked loud, he talked louder. And when they got him to admit that he'd visited the White House in connection with the $18,000,000 biggest-plane-in-the-world that the Kaiser-Hughes Corp. built, he was full of amazement as the senators.

Admiral Visited

Seems that Donald Nelson, war production chief, wanted Kaiser to see Adm. William Leahy, President Roosevelt's military advisor, about the contract for the plane that has been building for the last five years.

"Because he was the President's advisor?" demanded Sen. Homer Ferguson of Mich., chairman of the war investigating committee.

Durned if he knew, rumbled Kaiser in the deepest basso profundo since Chaliapin. He never did understand, he said, though he did believe that the admiral was a military man because he was dressed up in a sailor suit.

Kaiser said, ignoring interruptions, that he resented cracks of previous witnesses, including aviation pioneer Grover Loening, that he was a super salesman like Diamond Jim Brady and Billy Sunday.

He reminded the senators that he was, this minute, the fourth biggest manufacturer of automobiles in the world, that he ran the world's biggest cement plant, that he was making almost as much aluminum now as the whole country produced before the war, that he'd built the only integrated steel plant in the west, and that he doubted if Billy Sunday could have equaled his record.

His dream of an airplane 300 feet in wingspread, with eight engines delivering as much power as eight locomotives, he said, was no more impossible than any of the other impossible things he'd done.

Kaiser said he entertained no governmental big-wigs. Usually when he ate lunch with 'em, they paid. Yes, he said, this was surprising. Even Loening, the little man who'd testified he had his own girl friends in Hollywood, bought Kaiser a lunch.

"And I read his testimony about these ladies," Kaiser added. "And I have an idea they may have had something to do with the situation in which he found himself."

And so on, for a solid day. Kaiser's day, I'd say, if anybody asked me to act as referee.

QUADRUPLE MURDER TRIAL POSTPONED

By The Associated Press

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., July 30—A defense request that it needed more time to obtain statements and witnesses to prove its claim that Dr. Lloyd L. Ross "was and is insane" was granted by Judge J. R. Fuchs and the murder trial which opened Monday has been postponed until Sept. 8.

Ross, 42-year-old Harvard educated surgeon of San Antonio, is charged with murder in the deaths of Willard H. York, 39, an investment company head, his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Q. York, 43, their son John, 8; and York's mother, Mrs. Mary York, 67, formerly of Scranton, Pa.

The four were ambushed on a lonely country road near here May 25 while on their way to church. A fifth member of the family, 13-year-old Ann York, was wounded but has recovered and may be the state's star witness. Dr. Ross also is charged with assault with intent to murder the girl.

York and Ross had been friends for 10 years. Ross claimed York was indebted to him for stocks, bonds and securities totaling $80,270. York filed bankruptcy papers after an investigation by the securities and exchange commission.

District Attorney J. Lee Dittert said the state was ready for the trial when Judge Fuchs convened court at 9 a. m., but defense attorney Fred Blundell asked that written statements of two out-of-state witnesses for the defense be suppressed. They were those of Dr. Frank B. Walsh of Baltimore, Md., and Dr. C. D. Townes of Roechel, Ky. He claimed their testimony had not been properly taken. Judge Fuchs granted the request over defense objections.

A 14-hour pre-trial examination of Dr. Ross was completed by two defense psychiatrists Sunday. It led to a general expectation that the defense might plead insanity.

LIMA G.O.P. CHARGES BOSSISM IN ELECTION

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., July 30—Republican party leaders in Washington were charged with "bossism" by the Allen county G.O.P. central committee chairman today for asserted attempts to induce a special election to select a successor to Rep. Robert F. Jones.

Jones is scheduled to be sworn in as a member of the federal communications commission, Sept. 3.

Chairman G. Dewey Fetter said Washington leaders were determined to induce Gov. Thomas J. Herbert to call a special election but he felt "confident that the electorate was opposed to one."

"The Washington G.O.P. chiefs also are marshalling their forces to clear the field for William M McCulloch of Piqua to be the only G.O.P. candidate if and when such an election is held," he declared.

"At the same time, the national leaders," he said, "are ignoring the wishes of the other potential candidates and party leaders of the six counties in the fourth district."

Fetter declared the public wanted the post left vacant until the next general election. He prefaced his statement by saying that he was making it "more as a private citizen than as G.O.P. chairman."

Allen, Auglaize, Darke, Mercer, Miami and Shelby counties are in the Fourth congressional district.

At Columbus, Herbert said he had not decided whether he would call a special election.

He will take oath of office in his new job the following day.

Truman Plan To Dismiss Reds From U. S. Jobs Put in Action

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30—President Truman's plan to rid the government of workers considered disloyal—finally is being set up.

It's aimed mainly at Communists and fellow-travelers, those who follow the Communists party line although not Communists themselves.

James Marlow

Government officials, in deciding who's disloyal, will have a grave responsibility: not to injure innocent people.

Mr. Truman proposed the plan last March and asked congress for about $24,000,000 to make it work.

It was ignored by the Republican-controlled congress for months. And one of the top Republicans, Speaker of the House Joseph Martin, said:

The Republicans had promised to do just this kind of job themselves and were going to keep the promise.

House Passes Bill

So in mid-July the house passed a bill of its own, very much like Mr. Truman's plan, to fire disloyal workers. The senate ignored this.

But in last week's finishing-up rush, both houses finally voted $11,000,000 to carry out Mr. Truman's plan until next June 30, at least.

Before explaining how the plan will work, here is a question:

The government permits the American Communist party—which has perhaps 100,000 members—to exist in this country.

That's because, under the constitution, people have the right of free speech and opinion. Why, then, can't Communists work for the government?

The government's position is: working for the government is a privilege, not a right. So the government can decide who works for it.

Details of Plan

The plan will work like this:

The attorney general draws up a list of organizations he considers communistic or in sympathy with Communists, or fascistic.

(He's already done this and has a list of more than 70 such organizations. But he hasn't made them public and probably won't.)

This list will be a guiding star in deciding who should be considered disloyal. Membership in those organizations will tag a man for firing.

Each government agency will set up its own loyalty board. It will consider the cases of workers suspected of disloyalty.

If this board thinks a man should be fired for disloyalty, he can appeal to a still higher board, set up in the civil service commission.

That's the court of final appeal.

Can Bring Witnesses

Accused employes can bring witnesses and their own lawyers along at each step of the hearings.

In making a check, each agency can call on any government investigative agency, like the FBI or military intelligence, for information.

Mr. Truman said those investigative agencies can keep secret the names of "confidential informants."

In addition, the various government agencies will check on people looking for government jobs.

In addition, the various government agencies will check on people looking for government jobs.

And all government agencies must furnish the FBI a list of their present employes, about 2,100,000, for checking with FBI files.

Since the plan couldn't be started until congress voted money for it, it is just getting under way now. It will take time to get in motion.

This doesn't mean that, in the meantime, government agencies haven't been checking on disloyalty.

Make Own Checks

In the past year, in one way or another, the government agencies have been making checks of their own.

A total of no less than 233 government workers have been fired for disloyalty or as "bad risks."

Another 29 people, looking for government jobs, have been turned down on grounds of disloyalty.

And another 18 government workers, whose loyalty was in question, have resigned.

(Of the 233 fired, 190 were fired by the army in one army area alone. The army didn't release figures for its other three areas in this country.

(But it guessed the firings in those would be about the same. If so, that would bring the total firings up to around the 800 mark.)

Assassination Laid To Race Wire Service War

By The United Press

LOS ANGELES, July 30—Police concentrated today on a theory that gangster Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel was slain in a row over race wire services.

Marion County, Nearby Areas To Get More Permits

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, July 30—More than [illegible] Ohio liquor licenses will be available after Sept. 15 when wartime freeze orders terminate, but Liquor Director Dale Dunifon yesterday warned there would be no great rush to issue the new permits.

"Every applicant will be rigidly and carefully screened when we start accepting them on Sept. 1," Dunifon explained. "Our enforcement division will conduct a thorough investigation of each applicant and location."

The war-freeze order termination will make 680 restaurant and 1,652 night club licenses available in Ohio communities. Most of the licenses to become available are in townships scattered through 84 counties, accounting for nearly 1,300 of the 2,332 total.

License fee for a D-3 restaurant permit is $400; for a night club license $1,000.

The number of restaurant and night club permits for Marion county and neighboring area are as follows:

Marion—Marion city 11 night clubs; townships, six restaurant and 10 night clubs.

Wyandot—Upper Sandusky, two night club; townships, five restaurant, eight night club.

Crawford—Bucyrus none; townships six restaurant, 10 night club.

OHIOAN TRIES TO NAB CHILD DURING TRIAL

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 30—Albert Kirschner, 34, of Foster, O., faced contempt of court charges today after a police courtroom disturbance yesterday in which he seized his three-year-old daughter and attempted to escape during a hearing in connection with an alleged kidnaping of the child.

Defendant in the alleged kidnapping was Kirschner's brother, Ted, 22, also of Foster. The charges were brought by the baby's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Millie Cotton, 64, of Cincinnati, who had been caring for her during the parents' pending divorce action.

Mrs. Cotton alleged that Kirschner kidnapped the child from in front of her home.

While Judge William D. Alexander was hearing statements from opposing counsel on a motion to withdraw the charges, the elder Kirschner, a spectator in the proceedings, rushed up to Mrs. Cotton and seized the baby from her arms, shouting "She's my baby."

As he headed for an exit, the baby began crying and shouts were heard from many spectators. Court attendants stopped Kirschner before he reached the courtroom door.

The child was returned to her grandmother and Kirschner was charged with contempt of court.

Earlier, he had told police it was he, not his brother, who took the child from in front of the grandmother's home.

They Had a War To Win

THE smelling expeditions into the never-never lands of inside wartime administration under Franklin D. Roosevelt will be fruitful; there can be no doubt of that.

Nevertheless, their fruitfulness must be viewed with an important reservations in mind. The personalities, deals, arrangements and so on that are certain to look odd when viewed by hindsight were part of the national emergency.

The politicians and businessmen whose records are going to be reviewed for the record had a war to win. They made some momentous mistakes. It already has been proved in court that some of them were careless with the people's money. Most of the myths and legends that made ordinary politicians and businessmen look better than they were have been proved long since to be more malarkey. The rest soon will be These were mortal men, subject to all mortal shortcomings.

The shortcomings cannot be blamed on any political party, or any special point of view. Rather they were weaknesses to be expected under stress. For the record, it will be sufficient to demonstrate that weakness cropped out—that all surviving myths about supermen in Washington and elsewhere during World War II are groundless. They were just ordinary guys, like everybody else The men who made the great decisions took long chances, and sometimes they lost. Sometimes they deserve to lose The time has come now to find out why.

He Forgets Quickly

IN 1946 when President Truman ended the railroad strike by naming names and talking like a Dutch uncle to the strikers, A. F. Whitney, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen president, retaliated with some of the bitterest remarks publicly directed against a president in years

"The President appealed to trainmen and engineers to repudiate their leaders," said Whitney. "His appeal, however, fell on deaf ears as the train, engine and yard men have no more regard for him than they have for the Pendergast cesspool from which he gained political recognition." That and much more in similar vein.

That's why it's surprising to find Whitney coming forward with what virtually amounts to an endorsement of Mr. Truman for 1948. Whitney got over his mad very quickly. What has brought about such a rapid reconciliation? It's true that time heals all wounds and old hurts smart less when the new day's sun rises. But Whitney made some very strong remarks to be forgotten so quickly. Upon what railroad turntable do his political convictions spin?

The Ruhr Dilemma

THE greatest single factor blocking European recovery is failure to get the Ruhr coal mines operating at capacity. The men are there and their food ration is ample. The mines were only slightly damaged by war. But they produce only a fraction of capacity because the United States, Great Britain and France can't agree on how they'll be operated.

Committed to socialization of their own industry, the British steadfastly maintain that the Ruhr must be nationalized. The United States stand is less emphatic, Gen. Clay having received instructions from Washington to encourage private enterprise but not to oppose socialization if the Germans prefer it.

The United States and Britain had some chance of settling their differences until French Foreign Minister Bidault entered the fray, opposing German operation of the mines on any basis. Expressing the traditional French opposition to an industrialized Germany, Bidault says the quickest way to assure a Communist government in France is to increase German industrial management and power in the Ruhr.

So the matter stands stalemated. Even the Ruhr coal talks, scheduled to begin this week in Washington, are delayed because the conferees can't agree on what will be discussed.

Before the war, Ruhr coal kept factories going throughout Germany, Czechoslovakia and Austria. Italy received more than 12,000,000 tons a year, in addition to a half million tons of Ruhr steel products. In return she sent Germany almost a half million tons of Ruhr steel products. In return she sent Germany almost a half billion tons of lemons, oranges, pears, apples, wheat, olive oil, rice and textiles worth 2,500,000,000 lire.

Not even a start has been toward resumption of that beneficial exchange. Instead, the United States ships coal to Italy and food to Germany. Is it any wonder the Russians are watching the stalemate with glee and German politicians view the whole sorry mess with cynical contempt?

Did You Know?

A community on the Adriatic Sea called Zadar in 1920 was given to Italy and the name was changed to Zara, but in 1946 it was awarded to Yugoslavia and the name has been changed to Titograd.

The Allies were cut off from the sources of almost 90 per cent of their rubber supply when Singapore fell in 1942.

When the United States was cut off from its rubber sources in 1942, it had on hand more than 100-million good tires on cars and trucks.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Republicans Do Well in First Chance at Leadership.

WASHINGTON, July 30—The Republicans did rather well. Their first half-a-chance at national leadership in 15 years developed finally, of course, into what has been called "government by a two-thirds majority."

Democratic presidential opposition forced them to acquire two-thirds of congress to do anything important about the major problems such as unions and taxes. But when you add up the complete score of the first session of their 80th congress, you will find the early spring dissatisfaction with their delays proved to be unjustified and they finished with genuine accomplishments.

Their greatest overall accomplishment—and I think this is truly unprecedented in modern American government in their circumstances—was that they did not give enough ground to nullify themselves. They stood rather firm for what they believed, in the face of all the propaganda gales which blew. They did not trim their sails down to the point of nullification of their proposed course, which has been the great defect of good government, common to our times.

To put it in examples, they did just about what they said they would do before election on the union reform bill. They took a lot of time to do it, but when they were finished they were able to make their new law reach the statute books over a presidential veto. On taxes, they fell short of acquiring a two-thirds majority to do the same thing, but by only a few votes.

Their outstanding man-of-the-session in this respect was Speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts. Quietly and without publicity, he guided the house carefully and reasonably to the charted Republican course, and in the end he woundup as the man designated by the new law of this congress to succeed the President if anything should happen. The law was strongly approved by both Republicans and Democrats alike, who have appreciation of Martin's strong sense of fairness and justice If I were running a national magazine which looked anywhere near the genuine basis of things, Martin would be my man-of-the-year.

The Republicans were quite smart politically. They have Mr. Truman in the position of defeating tax reduction, and if that increases his popularity with taxpayers, then anything can. Particularly smart was the way they caught Mr. Truman running off with the foreign policy and European relief. I assume from the developments they suspected he would pull what might be called a Roosevelt on them, and present them with a Democratic fait accompli. Detecting this, they designated a series of committees to look into every angle of the foreign situation, relief, trade, finance and all the other angles during the congressional recess. If Mr. Truman is influenced into anything extraordinary during the absence of congress, it will be because all these committees fell asleep. It looks to me as if the Republicans are working gradually away from the old fetishes of this nation toward Europe and the world, and toward something which will be in accordance with the facts. They are not trying to revise the facts to fit a purpose.

Easy to Do

Now it is quite easy for people, especially commentators, to stand off and say what Washington, the Republicans, the Democrats, or government should do about this or that, to say, for instance: "If I had anything to do with it, I would do it this way." They do not understand what government is like particularly free democratic government. Free government does not stop the winds. It lets them blow. It allows organized pressure groups to set up wind machines and try to get gales started. During this session they all blew. But they did not blow the Republicans away from what they believed in, and most important, they could not even nullify the trend of Republican political faith, even though the Republicans had to get two-thirds of congress to move.

The details are worth another story, perhaps many of them . . . But for fear that you might lose a basic conclusion in a haystack of details, I would report first: the Republicans did rather well under the circumstances.

Of Diapers and Destiny

"Improper diapering of babies can cause emotional disturbances which may affect an individual's entire life, and so, indirectly the course of civilization," declares the president of the National Institute of Diaper Services.

Have we at last put a finger on the seat of Russian inscrutability: Does Ivan's reluctance to embrace international cooperation stem from a childhood fear of losing his pants?

Is his unwillingness to cooperate with the U. S. and Britain traceable to an unfortunate early experience with three-cornered security?

Is it true, in short, that the hand that pins the diaper is the hand that shapes the veto? And is the cause of peace a lost one now that Joe Stalin isn't subject to change?

If the diagnosis is correct, it is as many have been saying and the Russians are indeed a case for psychiatry rather than statesmanship.

After all, you can't expect a people to put their faith in world cooperation who have never learned to trust the safety-pin.

Now and 20 Years Ago

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, July 30—President Truman last week sent to congress a document universally and properly regarded as important. Newspapers put big headlines over summaries they printed. It was the semi-annual report of the president on the economic state of the nation, sent to congress in accord with law and supposed to be a basis for legislation.

The economic report pictures a country enjoying "unprecedented prosperity"—the largest annual income in our history, the largest production of goods, the largest number of workers employed. All this the report sets out in detail. It is summed up in two lines which are the opening sentence of the report—thus conspicuously placed, one surmises, to assure attention:

"Americans today live in a richer and more productive economy, and are enjoying its benefits more equitably, than ever before in peacetime history."

Previous Danger Sign

Read that and take it in Then go back 20 years. Read another statement and take in the startling near-identity to the present one. This is in the 1926 annual report of the then secretary of commerce, Herbert Hoover:

"The United States has produced and consumed more goods in 1925 in proportion to population, than ever before in its history. Our standard of living has therefore been the highest in our history, and is, of course, the highest in the world."

Mr. Hoover's statement records a condition of 1926. President Truman's economic report records a condition of today. Both conditions contain dangers.

Whether President Truman sees the specific dangers of today is not convincingly clear from the economic report. One present danger is the government practice of keeping up the prices of farm products, food. Another is wage-raises leading to spiraling higher prices of goods. Mr. Truman has done nothing to resist either of these, and seems reluctant to.

Hoover Voices Warning

The 1926 dangers differed from the present ones. They were seen clearly by Mr. Hoover. In the same commerce department report in which we recorded the current prosperity, he warned against "widespread" speculation in stocks and real estate then getting under way and against over-extension of installment buying. Though as a cabinet member Mr. Hoover was inferior in rank to the federal reserve board, he carried on a persistent campaign of pressure on the board of restrain speculation by raising rates of interest and other steps. The board did not take the steps, until too late.

The sum of the dangers, both now and 20 years ago, is accompanied by one over-all danger. This is the arising of a public psychology which does not see the dangers — but becomes rapt in contemplation of the prosperity That psychology was widespread in 1926. The habitually restrained New York Times spoke of 1926 as a miracle year, an "annus mirabilis." The austere secretary of the treasury, Andrew Mellon, in his annual report said: "The year just closed has been a fortunate one for this country."

Visitors "Impressed"

A phenomena of the time, proudly emphasized by the American press, was the visits of delegations from abroad, public officials and industrialists, to find the secret of the American economic miracle. One visitor said he was "impressed, everywhere and every day, by the evidences of an abullient prosperity and a confidence in the future."

Confidence in the future! That future was the collapse of 1929. "I have implied an analogy between the 1920's and the present. The reader may infer that the end might be the same, another collapse like the 1929 one. But the specific dangers in the 1920's differ from the specific dangers now. The outcome of the present dangers, if they are not arrested, would not be a repetition of the 1929 collapse. It would be different in kind and much worse, a catastrophic inflation.

The danger of inflation is at this moment serious. A serious degree of inflation has already taken place; it amounts, as expressed in prices, to upward of 40 per cent. Last week the administration, in the economic report, said that this inflation already in existence is not to be reversed, on the contrary it is to be accepted and preserved. As an official statement of administration policy, this is portentous.

At the same time there are under way wage-raises and price-increases which, with accompanying conditions, can hardly avoid becoming a new step in the inflation spiral, added to the 40 per cent that has already taken place.

Congress and Its Record

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE surprising fact about the 80th congress, which has now adjourned, is its actual accomplishment. The American system differs from the British in that political control need not be unified, that is, the president may be of one political party while the majority in either house of congress or both may be of differing parties. When that happens, congressional achievement is difficult.

In this instance, President Truman is a Democrat; the Republicans had a capable working majority in the house of reperesentatives but only an organizing majority in the senate. By an "organizing majority" is meant one which made it possible for the Republicans to select the officers of the senate and the chairmen and majorities of committees, but beyond that they were in an uncertain position. At first it appeared that the Republicans would have a working majority of three in the senate; then that seemed to disappear with Senators Morse, Aiken, Tobey, Ives, Cooper, Langer and Lodge functioning completely on their own.

Toward the end of the session, only Morse and Langer were wholly without party consciousness. Both were discounted in all calculations. Wayne Morse proved himself to be not a Republican but a new dealer, as fixed in the ways of socialistic confusion as Claude Pepper; William Langer was marked off as a maverick Thus, Senator Taft, the leader of his party in the senate, had to carry through his party's program with so narrow a margin that on his major measure he had to coalesce with like-minded Democrats.

Certain 1948 Issue

In these circumstances, it is little short of remarkable that any legislation at all went through all stages to actual law. The most important achievement was the Taft-Hartley bill, passed over the President's veto. The measure, regulating the power of labor unions and setting up a code of industrial relations, created somewhat of a furore but not as much as was anticipated. The Taft-Hartley bill will undoubtedly be one of the principal issues in the 1948 campaign and whoever runs for president will have to stand or fall by it.

Some assume that a non-congressional candidate, such as Dewey, Stassen, Eisenhower or MacArthur, might, in the campaign, evade the political liabilities of this act, but that is a misreading of American politics. Truman will run on his veto; the Republican will have to run on his party's sponsorship of the Taft-Hartley bill and there can and will be no dodging. Any Republican candidate will have to defend Robert A. Taft's leadership or suffer defeat by admitting that Truman's leadership has been more correct. Taft will be an issue.

Probable Slogan

This also applies to the tax bills. Twice passed, twice vetoed, twice lost in the senate by a narrow margin in the effort for passage over the president's veto, these bills will be major issues in the next election. It is impossible to evade those issues. The Republicans, in coalition with Democrats, offered the people a substantial reduction. The New Dealers, led by Henry Wallace, won the President to opposition to tax reduction. The slogan in 1948 will be: $20,0000,000,000 for Europe: Not a nickel off for Americans!" It will be a potent argument. No Republican candidate can resist it.

In a word, these two measures will form the platform of both parties in 1948. Another matter that will develop out of congressional action into a campaign issue is the bi-partisan foreign policy for which Senator Vandenberg stands sponsor. The author of that policy is John Foster Dulles, Governor Dewey's adviser on foreign affairs. Up to the veto of the tax bill, that policy justified itself. It now requires revaluation in terms of foreign commitments and domestic needs. A large if not major, element in the Republican party is now opposed to the bi-partisan policy and it is doubtful if President Truman can hold the entire Democratic party in line for it. Certainly the Wallace-Pepper element oppose it already.

Foreign Issue Looms Large

Thus, for the first time since 1944, the foreign affairs of the United States become a campaign issue. This definitely imperils the Marshall plan, which, not having been adopted by congress, through appropriations, at its recent session, will come before it in stormy weather at the next session.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

A new income tax law is proposed under which a taxpayer with a wife and two dependents can keep them . . . Under present law he can't afford to keep them.

This is a better bill than the ones Mr. Truman vetoed . . . . It not only cuts income taxes but it takes all the money back again in excise taxes

The bill would increase the value of a dependent by $100 . . . Thus enabling many a father to smile on his children again.

(NO. 1. MAUD MULLER AND HUSBAND

Announcer—And now, once again, the de-lightful couple Maud "Meadows" Muller and "Zeke" Doakes They have as their guest the well-known Judge "X."

Maud—Good morning, my dear.

Judge—Good morning, darling.

Maud (embarrassed)—I'm speaking to my husband, not you.

Judge—Ah, yes. But as I so often have said "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these—It might have been."...

Zeke—Boy, am I sick of that one!

Judge (ignoring him)—Maud, do you still do much raking?

Maud—I don't get a chance, judge, with all the kids to bring up, but I manage to keep in raking form, one way or another.

Judge—What do you go around the meadow in now?

Maud—Oh, I never break a hundred any more, but I love it. The mockbird in the tree . . . the sweet smell of meadow hay . the apple tree

Judge—Is that bubbling spring still there?

Zeke—Tell the judge, Maud, how you go out there often and stand around "gazing off to the far-off town with its hillslope looking down"

Judge—Does Maud do that

Zeke—Yep. She calls it a vague unrest. Always takes a tin cup with her.

Maud—Aluminum, my dear. A never-rust aluminum folding picnic cup, the ideal thing for that summer auto trip. We mustn't forget the commercials.

Judge—Do you go to the meadow in your bare feet and tattered gown any more, Maud?

Maud—Not since I got this radio spot, but I'm glad you brought it up for it gives me a chance to say that for meadow wear there is nothing like Buckbaum's Sandals, the Sandal For Comfort, in all colors, $5.50 to $22.98

Judge—I always think of you as having graceful ankles bare and brown...

Maud—The new Duzo Silkerino stockings are so sheer they give that bare brown effect. Smart women know what I mean. Ask for them the next time you go shopping. Judge, tell the radio audience about the bees and flowers.

Judge—Bees and flowers?

Maud—Yes, don't you remember?...

You spoke of the grass and flowers and trees
Of the singing birds and humming bees

Zeke (getting in the commercial)—If you have any trouble with your birds singing, it may be because of faulty diet. Rigsey's Sure Melody Birdseed will solve this trouble.

Maud (continuing):

He talked of the having, and wondered whether
The cloud in the west would bring fair weather.

Zeke (with a sneer)—The judge sure had a smart line of talk.

Judge (tenderly)—Maud, remember how you used to want your father to wear a broadcloth coat; your brother to sail a painted boat to dress your mother up grand and gay and give the baby a brand new toy each day. .

Zeke—That's all come true, judge, since we got the radio contract.

Judge—What do you get for this program, Maud?

Maud—IT AIN'T HAY!

The fellow who called it Lake Success was a poor judge of accomplishments.

Silver Lining

By TRUMAN TWILL

This summer's dark clouds have had a silver lining. The clouds were tough on picnics. Less food was consumed by ants. Fewer articles of clothing were sent to the cleaners with grass stains to be removed.

There was a marked reduction in poisoning from potato salad. Less than half as many fingers were fried on hot grills than are fried during an ordinary summer. Fewer teeth were broken from biting into pebbles accidentally cooked in hamburgers

There were less casualties from impromptu baseball games engaged in by superannuated old goats stubbornly refusing to make concessions to their advanced age. Fewer stitches had to be taken in wounds inflicted by barbed wire fences.

Not so many patriots had to be chased out of places barred to picnickers by land-owners hoping to save their properties from the vandalism that goes with eating food in the great outdoors.

There was a 47 per cent reduction in automobiles being stuck in places they never should have been driven into, such as swamps, creek bottoms, bosky dells, dusky bogs, abandoned gravel pits and stone quarries.

A million pop and beer bottles were not abandoned in the great outdoors, to be stepped on in years to come by trusting children experimenting with the thrill of going barefoot.

An even greater number of keys, rings, wallets and small items of hardware and jewelry were not lost by picnickers lolling about in unaccustomed and grotesque positions.

There was a marked decline in the sale of bicarbonate of soda and other substances prepared for the relief of persons who have eaten neither wisely nor well.

Fewer cases of poison ivy were reported than at any time since the automobile made it easily possible for persons susceptible to poison ivy to find a patch of the stuff to sit in within a radius of 100 miles.

Almost no one severed an artery while attempting to pry off the lid of a jar of olives with a bent screw driver borrowed from a nearby automobile.

Cases of people dozing on the greensward while large energetic bugs crawled into their ears dropped to zero.

There was a wholesome reduction in forest fires, fruit-stealing, cow-shooting, goring by angry bulls, pilfering, acute sunburn, horse thieving and fence-destroying.

What with one thing and another, picnickers have had a chance to get rested up so they can have a romp next year, if the weather improves.

Belgian Tribute to Baltimorean

Before being appointed Belgium's consul general in Baltimore, Mr. Whiteley had been consul general for the Free State of the Congo.

BRITISH ARMS CUT REPORTED

Attlee Said To Have Told Party Military Commitments Will Be Slashed.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 30—A Socialist source said Prime Minister Attlee told Labor legislators today that Britain would slash her military commitments in Germany, Italy and Greece almost immediately because of the nation's looming economic crisis.

Attlee won a virtual vote of confidence from Labor members of parliament after explaining to them the "broad lines" of his plan for meeting the crisis.

Gets Confidence Vote

A bulletin issued after the meeting said the members had expressed "complete satisfaction of the party" with the prime minister's statement and added:

"The members assured him of the united support of the parliamentary party (the Labor MP's) in all the measures which the government thought it necessary to take."

Attlee faced the legislators, many of whom had been critical of his leadership, at a strictly private caucus. Details of the explanation which he made at the caucus were not made public, but the bulletin issued after the meeting said he would explain his plan in the house of commons next week.

Extra Work Asked

Earlier a well-informed source had said that Attlee would call upon Britain's miners to work an extra hour daily to increase the production of critically needed coal—principal prop of the nation's trembling economic structure.

The source said Attlee would suggest time and a half pay for the overtime.

Later in the day Attlee was scheduled to confer with leaders of the national union of mine workers.

A highly placed government source said a change in Attlee's cabinet might be considered soon, but he ruled out the publicly mentioned possibility that the government might call a general election or invite the Conservatives to participate in another coalition regime such as saw Britain through the war.

Tiffin Mayor Fooled In Game but Wins Match

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., July 30 — A Youngstown man fooled Mayor Allan Kernan in a game of three card monte here but the mayor won in the end, anyway.

Pleading guilty to obtaining $75 from a rural filling station operator, the man, Foster Fant, 45, Youngstown, asked:

"Want to see how it works?"

Before Kernan could protest, he laid a red and two black cards on the table, then asked: "Which is the red one?" The mayor guessed wrong.

"That's all there is to it," said Fant.

"All except this," answered the mayor, "one hundred dollar fine and costs and two weeks in county jail."

HANDSHAKE ENDS KAISER TESTIMONY FOR A DAY. After a stormy session before the senate subcommittee investigating war-time contracts including the $18,000,000 Howard Hughes' airplane, Henry J. Kaiser, the wizard shipbuilder, shakes hands with Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan (right), chairman of the committee. Kaiser said that Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, the late President's chief of staff, gave the green light to build the still unflown Kaiser-Hughes flying boat. (International photo)

CONVICTED WOMAN ESCAPES PRISON

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 30—Federal judge's mercy spared Mrs. Alfred Wesley Ingalls going to prison today but the 62-year old club-woman must pay $6,000 to her former Negro maid, Dora Jones, for nearly 40 years enslavement.

Sobbing, Mrs. Ingalls listened with bowed head yesterday as Judge Jacob Weinberger suspended a three-year prison sentence.

Together with the cash retribution for Dora Jones, the court dictated other terms as the price of freedom for the defendant who was convicted of forcing her maid into slavery because of an affair nearly 40 years ago with Mrs. Ingalls' first husband, Walter Harman of Washington, D. C.

She was fined $2,500; placed under "rehabilitation" treatment of a physician-psychiatrist; and ordered to avoid any act of retaliation against witnesses in her four-week trial.

The court was advised that the $6,000 settlement was acceptable to the 58-year old Dora Jones, now living with a brother in St. Louis, Mo. Testimony disclosed the maid was paid wages of $8 a month only one year in the 40 years she served Mrs. Ingalls.

previous experience in the aircraft field, suggested that five of the largest companies, including Martin's, combine to furnish engineers and capital for a venture he would direct, the witness said.

"Good Profit In It"

"He said there would be a good profit in it," Martin commented, adding that his company at that time was interested primarily in fulfilling contracts for the Army and Navy for other type ships and sought only a "reasonable profit."

Senator O'Conor (D-Md) asked what Kaiser proposed to contribute.

Martin said that if five companies agreed to share in the venture, Kaiser said he would furnish one-sixth of the men needed and one-sixth of the capital.

"He said he could get the order for the ships and I probably could not get the order," Martin continued. "He didn't explain how. He said such an order wasn't within my reach or that of the other airplane manufacturers, but he could get the order."

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) asked why Kaiser thought he alone would be successful in obtaining such a contract.

"It was obvious," Martin replied, "that he was thinking of some other method than the Army-Navy approved program."

Hints Top Appeal

Martin said Kaiser admitted the proposal was "at variance" with the approved Army-Navy program, but that he could have it okayed by appealing to top officials.

"He just said he would go to high places to get the order," Martin said. "He didn't say what the high places were and I did not ask him because it was his business and not mine.

"I told him I was not interested in undertaking to force a program beyond the program that had been approved, but that if I was directed (by government officials) to join such a combination I would do so.

"He explained he thought he could get the government to direct me to join with others to build these ships."

In reply to a question from Ferguson, Martin said it appeared that Kaiser thought he could change the entire military program approved by the army and navy.

ent hearings on the wartime award of airplane contracts to Hughes and Kaiser.

In his statement today, Hughes called the senate inquiry an "aborative attempt to intimidate me and coerce me."

Meanwhile, Noah Deitrich, executive vice president of the Hughes Tool company, informed the senate group that John Meyer, publicity man for Hughes, will be unable to appear for testimony on Thursday.

Question About Parties

The committee wants to ask Meyer about reports he staged lavish parties for government and military officials at the time Hughes was beginning work on government contracts.

Dietrich said Meyer is in Paris and has been unable to obtain air transportation to appear as a witness this week. He said Meyer wants to be heard on Monday.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), presiding over current hearings as sub-committee chairman, said Jesse H. Jones, former secretary of commerce and head of wartime government loan agencies, will be asked to tell what he knows about the $18,000,000 contract Hughes holds for a 200-ton flying boat.

Kaiser and his aide, Chad F. Calhoun, testified yesterday that they went to the White House at the suggestion of Donald Nelson, then war production board chief. There they conferred with Leahy who was "very much for the idea," Calhoun said.

He added that a letter promising the contract for three flying boats was written six days later. This later was amended to call for only one flying boat.

The subcommittee turned today to Glenn L. Martin, head of the Baltimore aircraft manufacturing plant which bears his name, to recount his part in the negotiations.

Kaiser was on the stand more than four hours yesterday.

REPORT DUTCH SHOT DOWN MERCY PLANE

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, JAVA, July 30—The Dutch army said today it would be a cause of "great regret" to The Netherlands government should it develop that a plane reported downed by Dutch fighters near Jogjakarta was indeed an unarmed transport carrying medical supplies from India.

Shooting down of the plane as it came in for a landing was announced yesterday by the Indonesian government radio at Jogjakarta, which said nine persons were killed in the crash.

Commenting upon the Indonesian broadcast, an official statement from Netherlands army headquarters said that two Dutch fighter pilots had reported intercepting a plane and seeing the plane crash near Jogjakarta after warning bursts from their guns.

The Dutch pilots were Australian-trained Lt. B. J. Ruesink, 27, and Sgt. Maj. W. E. Erkelens, who was trained at Jackson, Miss. They flew companion P-40s. Both denied their bullets hit the plane, saying the pilot crashed into a tree in trying to get away after they fired warning shots.

"I probably could not have seen a Red Cross on the side of the plane since it was taking crazy evasive action and going 350 miles an hour," Ruesink told newsmen, adding that he was still unconvinced the craft was a Dakota.

The Dutch said they had no advance notice that any plane bearing medical supplies was en route to Jogjakarta.

At Singapore, two American import-export traders said $500 worth of sulfa drugs, bandages and cotton donated by them was aboard an Indian-owned Dakota transport plane which the Indonesian republic reported shot down.

West Virginia Town Apparently Being Sucked Into Earth

By The Associated Press

WELCH, W. Va., July 30—Welch tottered today on the rim of the earth, and the 6,000-odd inhabitants hoped their homes were not being sucked under the soil.

Torn sidewalks, ruptured building and buckled pavements showed the effects of the slow earth movement which has quickened in recent months.

Mayor L. E. Rogers guessed an underground stream might be to blame. He has told the city council that by listening at a wall at the rear of the Pocahontas theater, one can hear running water.

Another theory was that, in years past, coal had been mined beneath this southern West Virginia coal center, weakening the city's foundations; but there were no charts to back up this suggestion.

Officials, pondering the fate of their city, were considering what steps should be taken. There was no indication whether geologists would be called in to study the mystery.

Nine downtown buildings have been reft by wide cracks.

The brick postoffice has burst its seams with a fissure at the rear, running the height of the building.

The McDowell county national bank has fought bulky doors which, an official said, have to be re-aligned every few weeks.

The Ellwood hotel, the Appalachian Electric Power company and tracks of the Norfolk and Western railway have also felt the effects of the sub-soil movement.

Residents said their homes have been settling for years, but the sinking has grown worse recently.

Miss Tower Weds John McTaggart In Trinity Church

A GOWN of Lovely Lady white organdy over white satin was worn by Miss Bertha Elizabeth Tower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tower of 199 South Seffner avenue, when she became the bride of John Barney McTaggart, Saturday afternoon in Trinity Baptist church. Satin piping accented the gown fashioned with a fitted, scalloped bodice, sweetheart neckline, long sleeves extending to points over the hands and a full gathered skirt ending in a short train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from a tiara of point lace made from her maternal grandmother's wedding dress. Her arm bouquet of white gladioli was tied with a white satin bow and streamers.

Miss Clara M. Dykhinzen of Annville, Ky was the maid of honor, Miss Margaret McTaggart of Dayton, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Donna Marie Somerlot, niece of the bride, were bridesmaids and Miss Nancy Lou Tower, also a niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr and Mrs. James McTaggart of Dayton, was his brother-in-law, Richard Greenwood, and ushers were Robert Fowler and Paul G. Baker of Dayton.

The attendants' gowns of pique were fashioned alike. The fitted basques had round necklines and the skirts were draped. At the back of each gown was a large bow at the waistline. The maid of honor and flower girl wore peach piqua gowns and the bridesmaids were in aqua. Miss Dykhinzen's flowers were an arm bouquet of peach Picardy gladioli tied with peach satin ribbon, and she wore a halo of peach cornflowers in her hair. Halos of blue cornflowers were worn by the bridesmaids and their colonial bouquets held peach glamellia and blue cornflowers showered with aqua and peach streamers. The flower girl's bouquet was of roses and cornflowers showered with peach and aqua streamers.

A half-hour program of music preceded the 4:30 o'clock ceremony read by Rev. J. B. Holloway, pastor, and Rev. I. N. DePuy, pastor of Linden Avenue Baptist church at Dayton. Mrs. Cecil Davis, organist, played "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," Saint Saens, "Sweetest Story Ever Told," Stultz and "I Love You Truly," Bond. Rev. Robert S Adams, assistant pastor and minister of music at the Linden Avenue Baptist church in Dayton, sang "Twenty-Third Psalm," Malotte, "If I Could Tell You," Firestone and "Ich Liebe Dich," Grieg, and Miss Donna Marie Somerlot, pianist, played "Clair de Lune," Debussy "Liebesfreud," Kreisler. The traditional wedding marches were used and during the ceremony "Have Thine Own Way" was played. At the close of the ceremony Rev. Adams sang "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte.

Decorations in the church were ferns and a large basket of white gladioli. Greenery entwined the two seven-branch candelabra holding lighted candles. Family pews were marked with ferns caught with white satin bows.

The reception was held in the church parlors decorated with white hydrangeas. The bride's mother was costumed in a Bermuda sea crepe and her corsage was a deep camellia flowered begonia. The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow print crepe costume with a corsage of yellow gladioli. The table, laid with a lace cloth was centered with a tiered wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The bride's table held a centerpiece of white gladioli. Tapers held in three-branch candelabra completed the decorations. Assisting were Mrs. Louise Somerlot, Mrs Jean Greenwood, Mrs Marie Somerlot.

When the couple left on a wedding trip the bride wore a dress in a dusty rose shade, black accessories and a corsage of cream colored glamellias.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were gold compacts and to her flower girl she gave a rhinestone barette. The bridegroom presented his best man and the ushers with ties.

The bride was graduated from Harding High school in 1936 and Schauffler College of Religious Education and Social Work at Cleveland in 1942. She taught a year at Friendly House in Mansfield, later enlisting in the Navy. She served in the Navy fleet postoffice in New York and Armed Guard Center postoffice at Brooklyn, N. Y. and was discharged with the rank of mailman [illegible]. She later was dean of girls at Annville Institute, Annville, Ky., resigning her position last May.

The bridegroom was graduated from the Dayton High school and was procurement engineer of aeronautical equipment at Wright Field, that city.

Attending the wedding were guests from Detroit, Pontiac and Armada, Mich., Cleveland and Dayton.

Saturday the bride's parents were hosts in their home at a luncheon for the bridal party, families and out-of-town guests. Guests included Mrs. W. F. Schermerhorn of Auburn, Ind. and Miss Angelina McMahon of Wheeling, W. Va.

Annoyed Angler Downs Plane with Beer Can

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, July 29—A fisherman annoyed by a DDT-spraying plane flying low over nearby Carter lake, downed the plane—by heaving a beer can into its propellor.

Pilot Larry Anderson of Kansas City had no trouble landing the plane at the nearby Omaha municipal airport, but repair of the propellor "cost us five hours flying." H. A. Herschfield of Aerial Crop Service, said.

1937 Harding Class To Hold Ten-Year Reunion at Park

The first homecoming and reunion for graduates of Harding High school, class of 1937, is being planned by a group of students who were graduated that year.

The reunion will be held Aug. 17 at Lincoln park. Plans have been announced that in the event of inclement weather activities will continue in a shelter house on the grounds.

Committee members are attempting to locate as many of the 242 members of the class as possible. Some of the graduates have moved away, others are still stationed with the armed forces in occupied countries.

Those in charge are preparing to mail a double card to all classmates where the addresses are known. Graduates of 1937 are invited to attend the reunion even if an invitation isn't received. Lack of a card will result only when addresses are unknown. The reunion is for graduates of '37 and their families.

Chairmen of the various committees are as follows: Dale Schmidt and Harold Stafford, program; Forrest Sharrock and Jack Chivington, refreshments; Harold Denzer, Mrs. Agnes Jones and Miss Catherine Smith, mailing of cards; Mrs. Lucille Zieg, awards; Mrs. Martha Jane Quaintance, registration; Robert McCombs and Robert Romoser, publicity.

If any member of the 1937 class wishes to register or if they know the addresses of other members they are requested to phone either Mr. Denzer, 2262, or Miss Smith, 7597.

44 ways To get "Something for Nothing"

The railroads have received 44 "rules" demands from the leaders of the operating unions, representing engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and switchmen. They say they are seeking only changes in working conditions—NOT a wage increase.

More Money For Less Work

But what kind of rules are being asked for? Twenty-eight of them would compel railroads to pay more money for the same, or less work; 7 would require additional and unnecessary men to do the same work: the rest would bring about changes in operating practices at increased cost.

For Instance:

The Union leaders demand additional train and engine crews on Diesel-powered trains—one full crew for every power unit in the locomotive. A freight train hauled by a 4-unit Diesel would have to carry 4 engineers, 4 firemen, 4 conductors, and at least 8 brakemen, or a total of 20 men instead of 5.

"Made Work"—Sheer Waste

The Union leaders demand that full-length freight trains be cut to about half their length, even though such trains are most efficient for low-cost service to you. This rule would call for twice as many locomotives, would double the number of [illegible], and make accidents more likely.

Additional equipment, yards, and other facilities required to take care of these short trains would cost hundreds of millions. What the Union leaders really want is to make more jobs.

The Union leaders demand that [illegible] present basic day for passenger conductors and trainmen be reduced from 150 to 100 miles, which would have the effect of increasing their pay 50%. Such a run often takes only two or three hours!

You Can't Afford This Waste

Demands like these are against the interests of the whole American people, who depend on railroad service for nearly everything they eat, wear and use.

These rules would cost A BILLION DOLLARS annually—a gigantic waste which neither the railroads nor the country can afford.

Railroad workers are good citizens and good employes, with pride in their calling. Their record during the war was outstanding. We do not believe they fully understand the "featherbed" rules which the Union leaders are demanding. We do not believe they understand the harmful results which these rules would have to the railroad industry, to the millions of men and women dependent on railroads for their livelihood, and to the shipping and consuming public.

The great strength of America is in production—an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

MARIETTA FACULTY BACKS UP PRESIDENT

By The Associated Press

MARIETTA, O., July 30—A petition asking the retention of Dr. William Allison Shimer, 53-year-old president of Marietta college now under fire from the board of trustees because of his marital affairs, yesterday injected the college faculty into the controversy.

Prof. T. D. Phillips of the college physics department announced the petition and said it was signed by 23 faculty members—"approximately 80 per cent of the faculty signatures currently available."

Dr. Shimer, who received notice of the trustees' displeasure while honeymooning in Canada with his red-haired bride, Miss Dorothy Blair, former dean of women at Marietta, declined to disclose what his future action would be.

He did indicate he would seek a hearing before the displeased trustees, and added:

"In view of recent developments (obviously referring to the faculty petition) it is harder than ever for me to decide what course to take."

The board of trustees asked the gray-haired educator to resign without giving a reason, but when Dr. Shimer returned from Canada and demanded to know why, the board flatly declared it was because of "your separation, divorce and remarriage."

Dr. Shimer was married July 21, more than a year after his first wife, the former Edith Richmond, won a Franklin county divorce on grounds of "gross neglect."

A college president's life, the board of trustees averred, should be an example to students.

Dr. Shimer has declared his remarriage had "nothing to do" with his difficulties with his first wife.

It is practical to plant vegetables every week in the year except during July and August in Arizona's Salt River valley.

BETTY GRABLE PAID $299,333

Actress Earns More Than Any Other 20th Century Employe.

By The United Press

PHILADELPHIA, July 30 — Screen Actress Betty Grable poured her charm into 20th Century-Fox film productions to the tune of $299,333 in 1946, a salary report to the securities and exchange commission revealed today.

Miss Grable's salary was top ranking among 206 actors, actresses, producers, writers, directors and other company executives, all of whom receive $20,000 or more, for a total of $11,774,163.

Only the fabulous brothers, Spyrous and Charles Skouras, who parlayed a nickolodeon into the multi-million film empire, together were paid more than Miss Grable.

The brothers earned a total of $1,238,217 in salaries and bonuses last year. Vice President in charge of Production Darryl F. Zanuck received $260,000.

Taxes Are Heavy

(All salaries and commissions reported to the SEC are gross figures before federal or state income taxes. The federal tax alone runs about 50 per cent on $100,000, scaling up to 68 per cent on a $500,000 salary.)

Spyrous Skouras, 20th Century-Fox president who attended a Greek theological seminary before he enrolled at the Jones commercial school at St. Louis was paid $255,922 last year.

But Charles, a partner in the early St. Louis nickolodeon, now president of 20th's subsidiary, National Theaters Amusement Co., Inc., earned $982,395.

Other High Salaries

Other top 1946 salary payments reported to the SEC included $104,504 to N. Peter Rathvon, president of Radio - Keith-Orpheum, New York.

RKO also paid $105,010 to its board chairman, Ned E. Depinet, and $71,260 to vice president Malcolm Kingsberg.

Annual reports from other companies listed the following salaries, to top executives:

The Superheater Co., New York, F. A. Schaff, president, $105,387.

Pittsburgh Consolidated Coal Co., George H. Love, president, $75,000 plus $1,300 directors fees.

The Tappan Stove Co., Mansfield, (O)., A. P. Tappan, president, $70,922; P. R. Tappan, board chairman, $50,814.

Western Auto Supply Co., Kansas City, Mo., B. C. Gamble, board chairman and Lester Hutchings, president, each $60,000.

The Ohio Oil Co. Findlay, O., O. D. Donell, president, $55,000.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

When Baby Has Colic

A little experience tells a watchful mother when her baby is suffering from colic for she soon learns to recognize the hard, sharp cry which signifies abdominal distress. This type of crying usually occurs in the evening though, once in a while, such a baby will cry all through the day.

The baby's sleep is disturbed and during an attack its knees will be bent and its abdominal muscles contracted and rigid.

According to Dr. Arthur S. Brackett, of the Yale University School of Medicine, the colic may be due to the fact that the capacity of the baby's stomach and bowel, or bowel alone, is less than normal. Thus, the treatment of the colic consists in controlling the volume and quality of the food put into the stomach and bowel.

This can be done by increasing the number of feedings to shorter intervals, decreasing the size of the feedings and, if necessary, increasing the concentration. Thus in treating the colic, it is necessary for the doctor to determine just what feedings may be best.

Some infants will do better on four-hour feedings, others on three-hour, and not infrequently only two hours should elapse between the feedings. However, the more frequently the feedings are given, the less quantity is permitted and, if necessary, water is given between feedings.

Sometimes it is helpful to give the drug known as atropine since this tends to relax the bowel spasms.

When the feeding intervals are shortened, the baby should be kept on this schedule until the capacity of the intestine has increased to the degree that larger amounts of food may be taken at less frequent times.

In some cases, it may be found that a change to evaporated or dry milk will be helpful, especially if there is a history of allergy or oversensitivity in the family.

In the case of a breast-fed baby, Dr. Brackett believes that the colic will be relieved if the baby is put on a two-hour feeding schedule, being permitted to nurse for just five minutes at each time. This means that the baby gets ten feedings a day.

Dr. Brackett points out that the early care of colic is important in order to prevent partial starvation during the time when there is a most active development of the nervous system. It is also necessary to prevent wear and tear on the parents, as well as pain in the baby.

Not all physicians agree with Dr. Brackett's method of treating colic, but it would appear that it may have advantages in many cases.

PILES ARE NEVER "MILD"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a mild ailment, especially when not giving any pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its rundown tired feeling and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties. Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

REASON FOR CHEER

Editor of The Star: While there is much concern about so much rainfall, why cannot some one say something about the blessing of the water level of the state rising.

Just a short time ago, we were worried about the low level; (our own well was so slow that not a tubful of water could be gotten at single pumping; now plenty; other wells in this vicinity, same condition).

Shortage in cash crops of the farm? Sure; we will be in the red; but God will provide. He always has. He always will. "Trust in the Lord and do good. So shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed" . . . If you cannot trust, you surely can do good by being cheerful.

Boyle on Every Grade B Sucker List in U. S.

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

Hal Boyle

WASHINGTON — My idea of the strenuous life is opening the morning mail

Men who let their secretaries open their mail for them get sagging muscles and listless eyes They are passing up the only form of exercise people over 35 years of age should indulge in.

To me each day's mail is always fresh and new, as exciting as a child's well-filled stocking on Christmas morning

This is because I very rarely get depressing financial news in my letters. Some years ago I took care to see that all the family charge accounts were issued in my wife's name, so all the bills come to her now I am spared the distressing picture until I come home from the office

Thus my mail consists chiefly of thrilling offers and rosy business opportunities, chances to make great profits with "only a slight initial investment."

On All Sucker Lists

I must be on every class "B" sucker list in the country This surprises me as I don't often buy anything except cigars, drugstore sandwiches and an occasional bus transfer

But some one must have spread the word around that I am a junior Croesus Right now a man is trying to sell me some squabs so I can start raising pigeons in my bathtub as a profitable home hobby. Two other fellows are trying to get me to buy a cemetery lot, and any number of strangers want me to contribute to projects like starting an orphan home for armadilloes or raising a statue to Benedict Arnold

There is also a postal salesman who thinks I should buy a retirement annuity. He starts off his letters with this menacing remark: "Do you know only one man in five lives to be 65?" I make paper wads out of these letters and shoot them at sparrows

My favorite correspondent is a lady in Massachusetts whom I have never met She writes about once a month She begins "Dear Stinker"—and goes on from there She says that I may have forgotten my pledge to marry her when I sailed for Cuba to fight in the Spanish-American war, but that she is still waiting I wrote her that I wasn't even born until 1911, and she answered "You will have to think up a better excuse than that."

Squelches Ohioan

More puzzling to me is a correspondent in Ohio who sent a penny postcard with the word "act" scrawled on it. A week later came another postcard bearing the word "promptly." So I sent him back a postcard with the word "mission" on it, and a second postcard a week later that said only "accomplished." There has been no reply.

I can remember getting only two free things in the mail. Once a friend sent me a coconut, leaving me to draw my own conclusions as to why. Another time somebody mailed me a new ball-point pen, but the clip fell off.

The only financial investment by mail I am currently considering is an offer from an inventor. He said he will turn over to me his secret of a revolutionary form of atomic power if I will deposit $15,000 in the bank to his account and buy him a new convertible automobile.

"And the car," he wrote, "must be cream colored."

Actor Larry Parks Sues To Nullify His Contract

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, July 30—Film Actor Larry Parks alleges he signed under "duress" a contract with Columbia Pictures Corp., boosting his salary But the studio contends he did so freely and voluntarily.

They sued each other in two courts yesterday. Parks, who portrayed Al Jolson in the movie on Jolson's life, alleged that before he got that role he was informed that if he didn't sign a new contract he would be given only inferior roles in the future

He contended that a seven-year contract he signed Sept. 28, 1945, at $750 to $1,500 a week, actually was not a new one but a continuation of a previous one, expiring Nov. 1, 1946, at $100 to $600 a week He asked superior court to nullify the whole deal

Columbia asked the federal court to declare its rights and duties under the contract, contending the second agreement was valid and signed by Parks "freely and voluntarily"

Clevelander Killed In Mountain Mishap

By The Associated Press

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 30 —Four young U S mountain climbers, camped high on the icy slopes of 13,260-foot Mount Waddington, prepared today to bring out the body of a companion killed July 22 in an avalanche believed started by a minor earthquake

The victim, Charles Shiverick of Cleveland, O., was one of a party of four who had reached the 9,500-foot level in their assault on British Columbia's highest peak, 150 miles northwest of Vancouver.

With startling suddenness, the ice and snow swept down on the group, carrying them 1,500 feet Shiverick died of punctured lungs.

EWERS HIT BY ISING COSTS

ds Rejected When Costs Exceed Estimates of City Engineer.

Due to the rising cost of both materials, the Marion program, for which a bond was voted in the fall election 1945, is suffering setbacks that of the school program, E. O. Uncapher, city service director said.

In a meeting of the board of last week three bids sewer projects were rejected because the lowest figure was $13,170.40 over the estimate of T. S. Cathers, city engineer. Mr. Cathers estimated [illegible].

One of the projects, construction of the sewer on Bennett street and Fies avenue is included in the city program. The other, the sewers on Nye and streets is a separate project paid for by property owners. Bids rejected were as follows: Construction Co. of Columbus, $84,440.40; G. K. Kohbarger of Marion $84,334; and Continental Construction Co. of ngstown, $78,225.50.

Continental now is in the process of constructing the Clinton sewer, another included in citywide program.

Mr. Cathers was instructed to make another estimate for the cost of the intercepter sewers on Bennett street and Fies avenue and submit it separately from the Nye and Glad streets project.

The intercepter sewers are necessary, Mr. Uncapher explained, because they are needed to carry the sanitary sewage from Columbia street storm sewer directly to the sewage treatment plant.

The new Bennett street and avenue sewers would have automatic control which would the two lines when rain storms bring the flow up to a certain level at the Columbia street connection, and the water would automatically then carry direct to the Little Scioto river, instead of being taken to the treatment plant.

In a previous meeting of the board it was announced that the contract for materials and labor for both oiling and surface treating for Marion streets had been awarded to S. G. and W. Construction Co. of Waldo. Total cost of the project is $13,650. The work is expected to be started soon.

The contract calls for the following: oiling, 30,000 gallons, more or less, slow curing liquid asphalt at .1275 cents per gallon; surface treating, 40,000 gallons, more or less, asphalt emulsion at .1375 per gallon; 5,000 gallons, more or less, asphalt emulsion, .1375 per gallon; 1,400 tons, more or less, crushed stone, $2.60 per ton.

Error in Report On Council's Liquor Vote

In the report on the poll of council members taken on the liquor ordinance passed by city council Monday night, it was erroneously reported in The Star that Councilman Harold Robinson cast a dissenting vote. The two negative votes were cast by Councilmen Carl Rorick, second ward, and Malcolm Severns, councilman-at-large.

Prisoner Outruns Nest Of Hornets; Also Warden

By The United Press

CENTERVILLE, Va., July 30—When a member of a Virginia reformatory road gang stepped on a hornets' nest yesterday, all the prisoners ran for cover.

But Clarence Clark, 19, of Hobart, Okla., ran farther than all the rest.

Today reformatory officials admitted they still haven't caught up with him.

MARIETTA PRESIDENT STILL HOLDS HIS JOB

By The Associated Press

MARIETTA, O., July 30—Dr. William Allison Shimer, embattled president of Marietta college, still held his job today, showing no signs of quitting after an hour-long conference with a displeased board of trustees last night.

The 53-year-old educator, asked by the board of trustees to resign because of his marital affairs, declined comment after the closed hearing except to remark that the situation "remained in status quo."

The trustees earlier indicated Dr. Shimer would make the announcement of his own resignation.

Dr. Shimer told the massed students the board of trustees was not unanimous in their decision to ask his resignation, despite a statement to that effect in a board declaration.

He said he knew of at least two trustees who had not agreed.

The student body got into the act yesterday, first with a mass meeting attended by about 125 students at which Dr. Shimer appeared. He said he wanted to sound student sentiment.

The students made no formal announcement of their sentiments as a group, but 50 students last night paraded before the college administration with placards.

These shadowy pickets apparently were on the side of Dr. Shimer, for their signs read: "Why Jeopardize Our Future with Gossip?" and "Trustees Have No Right to gamble with youth."

There was no demonstration otherwise and the youths could be seen only momentarily as they filed under street lights.

Attending the hearing with the board of trustees were Dr. T. D. Phillips, physics professor; Dr. R. L. Jones, a history professer, and a student, Richard Hunt of New York.

Dr. Phillips earlier had disclosed a faculty petition, signed by about 80 per cent of the faculty now available, asking retention of Dr. Shimer.

The roll of the others was not disclosed.

Dr. Shimer was married June 21 to Miss Dorothy Blair, former Marietta dean of women and head of the college public relations department.

His first wife, the former Edith Richmond, won a Franklin county (Columbus,). divorce in 1947, on grounds of "gross neglect."

This situation, said the board of trustees, led to the resignation request "because a college president's life should be an example" for the students.

Townships To Receive Upper Burial Ground

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 30—The Oak Hill Cemetery association, formed by a group of Upper Sandusky business men in 1874 to operate the 37-acre burial grounds a short distance south of here, was nearing the end of its existence today as arrangements were being made to deed the cemetery to Crane and Pitt township trustees.

Increasing costs of maintenance in recent years have gradually reduced the funds of the association to the vanishing point and, even though there are "plenty" still available, the sale of lots has dropped to an occasional transaction because of the competition of Old Mission in Upper Sandusky and Forest Glen in Marion county.

Township trustees will be able to have funds set aside for the operation of the cemetery through the county tax budget, where the association had no means of raising money except through the sale of lots.

In addition, two or three board members from each of the 13 school districts in the county will be elected as well as two members for county board of education and three for the city board of education.

"ONE WORLD" PLEA VOICED BY SPEAKER

Wesley Church Pastor Voices Views on Rotary Program.

Declaring that there is no way out of the world's problems on the basis of war and that complete support and fulfilment of the United Nations program is absolutely essential, a Marion minister urged in an address Tuesday that the foreign policy of the United States be based on that principle.

The speaker was Dr. Edwin A. Brown, pastor of Wesley Methodist church, on the weekly luncheon meeting program of the Rotary club at Hotel Harding. His theme was "America's Choice—One World or None."

Disapproval of the Truman doctrine, which includes providing arms to foreign nations as preparation against war, was voiced by Dr. Brown. This he viewed as a policy serving to augment the fears and suspicions of Russia which have been stirred by the growing military might of the so-called capitalistic countries.

Making it clear that he does not approve Russia's attitude or actions, Dr. Brown at the same time indicated he could see how and why that country should have feelings of fear and suspicions. He sees deliberations of the United Nations as the one and only way to end this division and distrust.

"We must stop by-passing the United Nations. If the United States will put into the United Nations all that was indicated at the beginning we might inspire others to do likewise," he said.

Reviewing the rapid developments in world travel and communication since before the first World War and leading up to the atomic bomb and other devastating weapons of warfare, Dr. Brown said: "There is no possible way for the United States and Russia to escape each other in this kind of world," and declared that they must live and work together in "one world" if either is to survive.

Dr. Brown was introduced to his audience by Earl N. Hale, program chairman.

Guests of the club, in addition to the speaker, included K. E. Carpenter of Columbus, R. K. Brichbill of Marion, and two visiting Rotarians, Harley Roby of Minerva, O., and Eugene B. Willey of Stuttgart, Ark., former member of the Marion club.

THREE CUBS HELP ALL - STARS BEAT ZANESVILLE, 10 - 6

Burbrink, Maxhimer and Rosin Contribute To Dodger Downfall

By DON C. BURTON

ZANESVILLE, O., July 30—With the aid of three Marion players the Ohio State league All-Stars whipped the loop-leading Zanesville Dodgers here last night, 10-6, in the fourth annual All-Star attraction.

The Stars glittered at bat as they tagged six Dodgers for a total of 12 hits. Five Star hurlers, including Marionite Bill Rosin, limited the league-leaders to seven.

Dwight Maxhimer with four great catches in centerfield stole the show and was cheered loudly by the 3,221 fans who were mostly pro-Zanesville. Big Max also coaxed two walks from the Dodger hurlers and drove a liner to the fence in right center for a double.

Burbrink Works 6 Innings

Manager Nelson Burbrink was also outstanding as he worked six innings behind the plate before he gave way to Ben Haddix of Springfield. Burbrink, after getting a big boo from hostile Zanesville when he came to bat in the first inning, cracked out the game's first hit with a sharp drive to left. The Marion skipper threw out Bob Bartholomew, the leading base stealer, by 20 feet when he tried to take second base early in the game.

Big Neise also made a throw to trap a runner at first but John Batt of Newark dropped the throw. Batt said he just was not used to that kind of throwing and was not ready.

Bill Rosin pitched the ninth round for the Stars. After getting the first two men he walked two but Dwight Maxhimer took him out of trouble by ending the game with a great catch against the wall in right center.

Bryant on Mound

Manager Clay Bryant pitched the last two innings for his team. In the last frame with two out and the bases full Bryant yelled for Ival Goodman, All-Star manager.

"Why don't you get in there and try to hit one?"

Goodman accepted the challenge and went in as a pinch-hitter for Jack Maisch of Lima—and the former major leaguers faced each other again, but this time in a class D league. On the first pitch Goodman lined a terrific liner to the center field wall which was pulled down by outfielder Bartholomew.

Bryant grinned as Goodman rounded first, but finally said to the ex-Redleg:

"Can't hit 'em any more, eh, Ival?"

And Goodman answered:

"I'd be a .600 hitter if you were out there throwing all the time."

CINCINNATI, July 30—"Can Blackie do it again?"

This question was on the lips of every Cincinnati baseball fan today as Ewell Blackwell, the Reds' lanky right-hander, went after his 17th consecutive mound victory of the season.

The New York Giants, who beat the Reds, 2-1, last night, are on hand to put Blackie to the test. And they'll be out to get him for he already has beaten them twice this season, 4-3 on June 14 and 4-1, July 20.

Blackwell was just able to stagger to his 16th win last Friday as the Reds outlasted the Philadelphia Phillies to gain a 5-4 decision.

With that victory he tied the American league record for consecutive wins, held by four pitchers. Victory today still will be two shy of the all-time record, set by Rube Marquard of the Giants in 1912.

The stringbean hurler was scheduled to face the Giants last night but Manager Johnny Neun decided to keep him off the mound for another day because of a leg injury suffered in his last outing.

The Giants put together four of their seven hits, including Willard Marshall's 26th homer of the season, in the fifth inning of last night's game to shade the Reds, 2-1.

A Redleg rally in the final round fell one run short of deadlocking the game.

Larry Jansen scattered six Cincinnati hits for his tenth victory. Ken Raffensberger met his eighth defeat against three wins.

FELLER STOPS BOSOX WITH BLACK SLATED FOR SECOND TRY

Boston Whipped, 5-1; No-Hit Pitcher To Gun for Tribe's 3rd Straight.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, July 30—The Cleveland Indians, having stopped the Boston Red Sox' winning streak at seven games, try for their third in a row tonight when they meet the Sockers in the second game of the series.

Don Black, who owns an 8-7 record, will hurl for the Tribe against Earl Johnson, with a season's showing of seven victories and three defeats.

Bob Feller's pitching and Eddie Robinson's home run blasting smashed Boston's winning streak yesterday, 5-1.

In beating the league champions for the second time, Feller was forced to leave the game in the ninth inning when he developed a blister on his pitching hand. Ed Klieman saved the victory.

Robinson twice hit for the circuit, his 10th and 11th home runs of the season.

Cleveland staked Feller to a one-run lead in the first inning when George Metkovich singled and Lou Boudreau followed with a double, his 101st hit of the year.

Joe Gordon's double and Dale Mitchell's single meant another run in the fifth and Robinson's first home run opened the sixth. Boudreau's walk preceded Robinson's second homer in the eighth.

Denny Galehouse was the loser.

Boston's lone run came in the seventh when Sam Dente singled, Sam Mele cracked a base hit, Ted Williams walked and Bobby Doerr hit a long fly.

Cleveland collected 11 hits, while Boston made eight, seven of them off Feller.

Tribe Catcher Jim Hegan was injured by a foul tip off the bat of Dom DiMaggio in the sixth inning and was replaced by Al Lopez.

Directors Set OSL Playoffs; Discuss Dayton Substitute

The Ohio State league playoffs between the first four teams will start on Monday after the season ends on Sept. 21, the directors of the league decided at a meeting before the All-Star game at Zanesville yesterday.

Four Ohio teams are in the running for the vacant spot in the league next year when Dayton will go into another circuit of class A. The four are Mansfield, Findlay, Portsmouth and Charleston, W. Va.

Ft. Wayne and Anderson, Ind., have also made application for membership in the Buckeye loop. President Frank M. Colley said he had enough applications for the one vacant franchise to form a new league.

At the meeting yesterday all the eight clubs were reported in good financial condition and ready to go next year.

The directors entertained the sport writers at a dinner at Elmhurst Inn before the game and both the All-Star team and the Zanesville team after the contest.

George M. Trautmann, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs was a speaker along with Frank Lane, president of the American association. W. Dexter Hazen represented the Marion club.

Cy McBride of the Richmond Palladium was elected secretary-treasurer of the league sport writers to replace Paul Day of Middletown since the Rockets have dropped out of the league. The other officers are Howard Spencer of the Zanesville Signal, president, and Bob Worth of the Newark Advocate, vice president.

Flatbush Faithful Order Series Tickets As Cardinals Fall, 4-0

By The Associated Press

Flatbush faithful today were exhibiting haste to order world series tickets, with hardly a soul in Brooklyn holding any doubt over the Dodgers' participation in the October classic.

They had plenty to support their contention. For last night the Brooks, behind the superb pitching of rookie Harry Taylor, whipped the St. Lous Cardinals, chief threat to their pennant hopes, 4-0.

Yesterday's Victory increased the Dodgers National league lead over the runner-up Redbirds to eight full games and stretched their current victory string to 11 straight, the highest streak in the league this season.

It was strictly a one-man show as Taylor hurled and clubbed the Cards into submission. On the mound, Taylor held the runless Cards to three hits to register his ninth against three losses. At the plate he drove in the first Dodger tally in the sixth inning with a squeeze bunt. He batted in two more in the eighth with a tremendous triple and carried the final run in himself a moment later when second baseman Al Schoendienst erred on Ed Stanky's grounder.

The New York Giants remained in third place, nine games behind first, when they nipped the Cincinnati Reds, 2-1, in a night game at Cincinnati, with Marshall's 26th home run proved to be the deciding run.

Held to two hits for six innings, the Chicago Cubs broke loose with a five-run attack in the seventh to defeat Philadelphia, 5-4, for their 13th success in 14 games with the Phils.

Ernie Bonham, ex-American league pitcher, won his ninth game against three defeats this season as he pitched the Pittsburg Pirates to a 6-5 victory over the fourth place Boston Braves in a night game at Pittsburgh.

The Boston Red Sox dropped 10½ games gehind the idle American league leading New York Yankees by losing a 5-1 decision to Bobby Feller and the Indians at Boston.

Philadelphia's fourth place Athletics outscored the Chicago White Sox, 5-2, in a night game at Philadelphia.

The St. Louis Browns walloped the Senators, 8-2, in a night game at Washington.

The Detroit Tigers and Yankees enjoyed an off day.

SCHLAIRET TRANSFER, TONG IMPLEMENT 9'S WIN SOFTBALL TILTS

St. Mary 1, Legion Lose in Commercial League Via Forfeit Route.

Schlairet Transfer remained undefeated in the second round of the Commercial league by beating McAllister 12-5 last night.

Dillion led the Schlairet attack with two home runs and French and Reed also contributed homers.

Tong Implement had little trouble defeating De Molay, 16-0.

The other two games scheduled resulted in forfeits. American Legion failed to show for a game with Moose and St. Mary 1 was not on hand to play United Brethren. The St. Mary forfeit may not stand, however, because the team believes they did not have ample notice that the game was to be played.

FILMLAND RED PROBE BILLED AS COLOSSAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 30—The investigation of Communism in Hollywood scheduled by the house committee on un-American activities to begin Sept. 23, got advance billing today as stupendous and colossal.

Almost that is.

"It will be sensational," Rep. Nixon (R-Calif) predicted.

A member of the committee, Nixon told reporters:

"We intend to name names and to produce witnesses who will testify they have seen some persons prominent in Hollywood at Communist meetings and who will report what they said."

Just how many first dimension stars will be brought into the hearings is not yet certain. Nixon said he thinks most big name stars who may figure in the inquiry will be listed as tinged with pink rather than as bright red Communists.

The key figures in the Communist movement in Hollywood are not well known nationally, Nixon said, but are important in the movie industry.

The Californian indicated a personal view that the committee might accomplish more by turning its fire on Communists in the government, education, labor and other fields. But he said the Hollywood inquiry should be of value in giving the movie capital a dose of preventive medicine.

War Against Erosion Starts Again After Five-Year Lapse

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 30—America's greatest natural resource—her fertile soil—has been wasting away rapidly, but the war against erosion once again is well under way after suffering a five-year lapse in many areas.

It is estimated more than 1,000,000,000 of the nation's 1,700,000,000 acres of crops, grass, and timber already show erosion damage. The main causes of erosion have been water, wind and man himself through plowing, cutting of timber, over-cropping and over-grazing.

Of the resulting scarred land throughout the nation, Clinton P. Anderson, secretary of agriculture, estimates 282,000,000 acres have been ruined or almost hopelessly damaged. He adds there are "only 460,000,000 acres of good crop land remaining," and estimates the annual cost of erosion at about $4,000,000,000.

Battle Joined

But since World War II, an Associated Press survey shows, land owners and government soil conservationists have stepped up a driving to plug the vast leakage of wealth. The War department, too, has joined up.

As for the water erosion phase, campaigns are built around a pincers movement of flood control dams and channel deepening on the main streams and a water-holding operation in the development of entire watersheds on the tributaries.

The first combined operation to get under way is in the watershed of the Little Sioux river in northwestern Iowa. Initial land work started last spring, and the first structures have been completed.

R. H. Musser, head of the eight-state regional U. S. soil conservation service office at Milwaukee, Wis., reports farmers in the watershed set up a voluntary 15-year program to stop their farms from riding downstream into the Gulf of Mexico.

Big Profit Seen

He estimates the farmers will profit $2.05 to $2.52 an acre annually for every $1 invested, and the public will recover $1.14 to $1.82 for each $1 its government puts in, through the saving of topsoil and the elimination of flood damage to crops and buildings.

During recent floods in Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri, said the regional conservator, enough topsoil washed away to cover 325,000 acres to a six-inch depth and the damage cost was estimated at $500,000,000, including $283,000,000 for soil loss and $188,606,000 for crop loss.

More than 800 structures, ranging from tiny gully-stoppers to full-scale channel controls, have been projected for the area, Musser said.

The objective is to trim down the often-mighty Little Sioux before it empties into the Missouri river about half way between Sioux City, Ia., and Omaha, Nebr. In this project the service and the war department have combined forces for the first time, he said.

11 Projects Planned

The service has 11 such watershed projects on the docket, while the war department, through its responsibility for inland waterways, has planned flood dams and deeper and straighter river channels. Eventually they hope to harness the annually rampaging Missouri and Mississippi rivers as well.

Musser said the service will invest nearly $6,000,000, more than two-thirds of it coming from a congressional allocation and the remainder in labor, equipment, and materials from state and local sources and from the farmers themselves.

Typical of the program is the Nepper sub-watershed district three miles southwest of Mapleton, Ia. It comprises about 400 acres and will have two erosion control road structures, four farm land structures, 17½ miles of terraces, and 25 miles of grass waterways, Musser said.

Some 65 acres in the Nepper project will be converted from cropland to pasture, and all cropland will be farmed according to the contour of the land and in recommended crop rotations to hold the soil.

Musser said "enough topsoil already has washed into the Missouri river from the Little Sioux watershed alone to build a wall of earth 10 feet high and three feet thick, completely around the globe at the equator."

In places there are trench gullies 60 to 70 feet deep, and sheet erosion adds to the loss rate, estimated as often reaching $1,000,000 a year. Finally on Jan. 3, 1946, land owners and conservationists got together to figure out what could be done.

STOCKS TRY FEEBLE COMEBACK EFFORT

Special to The Star

NEW YORK, July 30—Leading stocks made a feeble effort at a comeback today, after the sharpest market relapse in more than three months, although there were enough offerings to keep many pivotals in losing ground.

Dealings slowed appreciably after an active opening and narrow irregularity prevailed near midday.

In the resistant area were Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Standard Oil (NJ), Wesson Oil (on a pleasing year-end disbursement), Dow Chemical and General Electric.

Occasional stumblers were Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Norfolk and Western and Pennsylvania Railroad.

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, July 30 — Saturday the Disabled American Veterans offered for sale on the streets of Crestline the little blue flowers which were adopted as the national flower of the Disabled American Veterans For-Get-Me-Nots as a reminder for American citizens not to forget the sacrifices made by American boys during the wars. Roy Payne, county service officer, reports that 1,400 For-Get-Me-Nots realizing $160.87 were sold.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I AM so used to Katharine Bickett's nursing methods that I fairly could see her balancing her answer to Mary's question on her mental scales

Then she made a swift decision, and smiled at Mary.

"I am sure Noel is at the door," she said "Would you like to let him in yourself?"

"Oh! Oh! May I?" Mary asked, and skimmed toward the door as a bird might do, I told myself

Katharine sent a warning after her

"If it shouldn't be Noel, don't feel let down," she said "He'll be along any minute"

"God couldn't be so cruel as to let it be anybody else!" Mary cried, with her usual flamboyant extravagance of speech, and the icy lump of fear for her which had been next my heart, and which had been getting smaller by the second, finally disappeared. Mary distinctly was herself again

The next instant she had flung the door open, and for a startled instant Noel stared unbelievingly at her.

Then with a shout of "Mary! Mary!" he caught her in his arms, and the next instant they were exclaiming, laughing, and I caught the glint of tears in both pairs of eyes

"This way," Katharine said practically, and virtually "shooed" them into the bedroom.

Got No Answer

"Anything special you'd like us to order for breakfast?" she asked, but she got no answer, and I knew by her smile as she shut the door on them, that she had expected none.

"Have you any ideas, Madge?" Katharine asked.

"I fancy I can give their breakfast order," I said 'They've been with me often enough. I know what they both like"

"They won't have any idea what they're eating," Dicky said, with a laugh "Nightingales' tongues or soggy oatmeal, it will be all the same to them."

"Ugh!" Faith shuddered. "I'll bet I'd know what I was eating if they brought that stuff to me! I've seen soggy oatmeal, and I hate it And I think nightingales' tongues must be perfectly horrid! Did you ever see any, Daddy, or"—she gave a little shiver—"eat any?"

I knew that Dicky was silently renewing a quoted vow I have heard him make frequently when Faith looms unexpectedly in the offing—"Never again will I be as funny as I can" and, flashed him an understanding and sympathetic smile.

"No, darling, I never ate any or saw any," he told her "And you'll never have to eat any They're fairy tale stuff—I'll find a book and read you about them some time—but not now," he added hastily, "not for quite a long while"

"Why?" Faith put her perennial question.

Spoke Hastily

Then she caught my eye, and spoke so hastily that I saw Dicky turn away with what I knew was a choking laugh, and had hard work to control my own risibles

"It really doesn't matter," she said, in so lifelike an imitation of one of my own mannerisms that Dicky choked again, and I gave my small daughter a wide indulgent smile as partial relief for my laughter muscles

"That's a very good girl," I told her. "Daddy is very busy just now with some work, but after a few days he will find the book and read it to you Now tell me what you want for breakfast. No, wait just a minute"

I turned to Katharine and Dicky

"If you'll write out your breakfast orders," I said, while I struggle with Mary's, Noel's, Faith's and my own, I can phone them all at once. You don't need menus"

"I'll tell the cock-eyed world I don't!" Dicky assured me "I know their club breakfasts by heart Here are pencil and paper, Katrina"

She took them and they both fell to scribbling while I listened to Faith's familiar plea

"Mummy, if I'm awfully good, and drink my orange juice all down, and eat all my cereal, may I have some of those lovely fluffy pancakes and maple syrup as my last course?"

It is a plea which Faith makes every morning. She would eat pancakes three hundred and sixty-five days of the year if I would permit so much starch in her diet As it is, she is permitted them only occasionally, but she never fails to ask for them

Today, however, I decided to surprise her, principally because I knew both Noel and Mary were fond of pancakes and I had planed to order them for their breakfast

"Why, yes, Faith," I said "You may have them this morning Indeed, I think we will all have them"

"Gee!" Faith intoned then added ecstatically "Gee! I know now what that poem means you read me the other morning 'God's in His Heaven All's right with the world'"
